GIRL DRESSED AS A SOLDIER INVOLVED IN MURDER CASE

LEOPARDS FOR PETS

Juanita Hansen and her leopard pet, "Tiny."

MT. CLEMENS, MICH., Dec. 29.—Macomb county authorities were today investigating a new angle of the slaying of J. Stanley Brown, son of a Detroit manufacturer, whose body was found in his automobile on the road from Detroit last Wednesday morning. The new information was a statement by Miss Gladys Summit, who came here late last night from Battle Creek and gave the officers a story involving a young woman who until last Saturday lived in Battle Creek and who, Miss Summit declared, "had been much in Brown's company just prior to his death."

The girl, whose name Miss Summit gave to the officers left Battle Creek for Mount Clemens early last week, the statement says, after borrowing a uniform from a soldier stationed at Camp Under. She returned to Battle Creek Wednesday afternoon. Miss Summit declared with a large sum of money and attire in new and expensive clothing. Later when informed of Brown's death by Miss Summit, the statement says, the girl displayed unusual interest and inquired if her name was mentioned by the newspaper reports.

Discussing the latest development of the investigation, Alan Straight, chief of police, who returned here last night with Miss Summit, recalled the statement of a farmer that the latter had passed Brown's automobile late Tuesday night and some distance down the road had passed a figure dressed in men's clothing but who, he said, did not walk or look like a man. This peculiarity, the farmer said, attracted a second look of the pedestrian.

Miss Summit's statement that a uniform had been borrowed from a Camp Under soldier, Chief Straight declared, was corroborated by the fact that the soldier called at the young woman's rooming house during the officer's investigation there to ask the return of the uniform. Straight said he believed the soldier was not in any way connected with the case.

Miss Summit's statement says the young woman asked her to join her on a visit to Mt. Clemens where she said she had an engagement with the slain man.

"I'll get Brown's money and ring if I have to kill him," the statement quotes the girl as saying. Miss Summit says she declined the invitation whereupon the girl replied: "Then I'll get some one else to help me."

CHANGES IN RESERVATIONS MAY PROVE ACCEPTABLE

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 29.—The Republican and Democratic senators working for a peace treaty compromise entered their attention today on a plan to have been accepted by the mild reservation Republicans and by a number of Democrats for ratification with three modifications in the 14 reservations approved by the senate majority at the last session.

The three changes which some senators believe would make the reservations acceptable to two-thirds, deal with the preamble declaration that the qualifications must be acquiesced in by the other powers with Article 10 and with Shantung.

The mild group believe that Senator Lodge, the Republican leader, will be willing to make these changes and that Senator Hitchcock, leader of the Democrats, also will be satisfied with them. It was said, however, that party leaders in the senate had not expressed a final opinion.

Under the new proposed modified the senate reservations would be regarded as accepted by the other parties to the treaty, unless specific objections were made within a limited time.

The wording of the Article 10 reservation would be changed so as to eliminate the language which President Wilson said he would regard as a rejection of the treaty and to substitute an affirmative declaration that the article's obligations are accepted with the understanding that future congresses shall be at liberty to decide questions of peace and war. Language which some senators have regarded as offensive to other powers would be modified in the Shantung reservation.

It is expected the task will take several weeks. The recount was demanded by the Anti-Saloon League and in most instances is based upon alleged errors and irregularities of election officials.

The amendment was defeated by less than 500 votes and many expect the recount to change the result into a victory for the amendment by approximately 2,000. Yet leaders say the recount will not change the result.

Undertaker, "King Pin" In Wood Alcohol Traffic, Arrested With Other Principals; Wholesale Roundup Of Bootleggers Starts

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Three men, a druggist, a liquor dealer, and an undertaker, faced charges before a United States commissioner here this morning in connection with the spreading of wood alcohol as whiskey through five states in the last ten days, death and blindness following in its wake.

The men arrested late last night and early today by Daniel L. Porter, supervising revenue agent here, and H. B. Dobbs, a federal agent, are: Adolph Panarelli, a Manhattan wine and liquor dealer; John Romanielli, a Brooklyn undertaker; Samuel K. Soley, a Brooklyn druggist. Panarelli, according to Dobbs, is the "king pin" in the wood alcohol traffic; Panarelli, who, according to federal agents, made a clean breast of his part in handling the beverage, said when arrested:

"I am glad you got me. I will tell all I know, but for God's sake don't send me to Connecticut. I don't want to be lynched. My name has been published in all the papers, and it would mean certain death."

According to Dobbs, Panarelli explained that he had been approached by a man named Solsberg of Hartford, Connecticut, a friend of his, to procure some "Christmas" hooch. Panarelli then got into communication with Romanielli, Dobbs said, and finally Soley, the druggist. When interviewed by newspaper men at police headquarters Panarelli said he believed that 20 barrels of the "whiskey" had been shipped to Hartford each barrel containing between 40 and 50 gallons. The price paid was from $1,000 to $1,500 a barrel, he said.

GIGANTIC ROUND-UP

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—One of the biggest roundups of bootleggers and manufacturers of illicit liquor ever made in this country is beginning as a result of the wave of deaths and blindness which has followed the sale of poisoned liquor, Daniel L. Porter, supervising revenue agent for the New York district, announced today.

In addition to the three men already in custody here as a result of the sale and distribution of liquor believed to be responsible for three score deaths in New England and this city, Mr. Porter declared that ten more persons would be arrested here during the day.

Eleven already in hand is sufficient, Mr. Porter said, to hold Adolph Panarelli, a Manhattan wine and liquor dealer; John Romanielli, a Brooklyn undertaker, and Samuel K. Soley, a Brooklyn druggist, the alleged principals in the distribution of poisonous liquor in New England, on charges of first degree murder.

The men are being held incommunicado during the 48 hours which will elapse before they are arraigned before a United States commissioner. Bail of $50,000 for immediate release of Panarelli already has been refused, Mr. Porter said. When the men are arraigned, Mr. Porter declared he would ask the commissioner to set the bail at $50,000 for each defendant.

The three changes which some senators believe would make the reservations acceptable to two-thirds, deal with the preamble declaration that the qualifications must be acquiesced in by the other powers with Article 10 and with Shantung.

The mild group believe that Senator Lodge, the Republican leader, will be willing to make these changes and that Senator Hitchcock, leader of the Democrats, also will be satisfied with them.

CLOSED AFFAIR," SAYS GIRL LEFT WAITING AT CHURCH

MONSON, MASS., Dec. 29.—Miss Ruth M. Keeney, a Bucknell University professor of Spanish, who was left waiting at the church here Christmas day, when Dr. William Grey Vermilye, of New York, failed to appear for their announced wedding, said today she had closed the affair.

Miss Keeney, with her father, George L. Keeney, returned to their home after an unsuccessful attempt to interview Dr. Vermilye at a New York hotel.

"They said they were still unable to explain Dr. Vermilye's failure to appear for the ceremonies, but with reports that Dr. Vermilye's second wife is alive, and he is still married to her, Mr. Keeney said he and his daughter felt they were well rid of the whole matter and very thankful that it went no further."

Mrs. Mary McGregor has returned to Akron, after a few days' visit with Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Poffenberger of Gallia avenue.

and is a nice boy in every respect, but I am afraid there is a girl trying to take him from me and I don't see how I can give him up. We have quite general times but he always comes back to me. This girl is about my age and is very good looking. He seems to like her as well as he does me. Do you think she should do me?

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Sperry of John street had as Christmas dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. Henry Girling, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Girling, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Fleisch and Miss Margaret Poffenberger of 2014 Third avenue.

They returned home this evening.

Dear Miss Wise—Please state in your column how often I may renew my 1919 Wap year? Please give me the ruling on how to tell when the leap year is.

A READER—Leap year has occurred every four years during the past 100 years except on two occasions when it jumped to eight years. There was no leap year from 1700 to 1704 and from 1800 to 1804, therefore 1900 was not a leap year. When there are 29 days in February you will know it is a leap year.

Dear Dolly—I bought a new kettle over a year ago and it breaks every thing I cook in it. I have tried every thing I can think of to clean it.

WONDERED WIFE—You did not say what kind of a kettle you had but I presume it is an iron kettle as I never heard of any other kind breaking things like that. There are various ways of cleaning a new kettle or taking the black off of them. One way is to boil skim milk in kettle and then wash with soap suds. You might let the milk simmer all day then let stand over night in the vessel before throwing away. Another way is to fill the kettle with water in which a few pieces of washing soda are dissolved and set on fire to simmer. Let water boil until inside of pot looks clean. Some housewives clean new pots by boiling potato or turnip peels in them.

Dear Dolly—As you have helped so many others I also am coming to you. I have a very dear girl friend who is in love with her cousin more than a cousin loves and he loves her. Now Dolly, do you think that it would be right for them to get married if they are cousins, for I don't think they will be happy the way they are going now.

BLUE EYED SUSAN—Marriage between first cousins is forbidden in most of the states. Personally I do not think it right for blood relatives to marry.

Dear Miss Wise—As you have several times helped me I am coming to you again. I have been going with a boy for some time, as I cared for him very much and did not know for sure whether he cared for me or not. He is about seven years my senior.

SAYS SHE WILL PRAISE IT LONG AS SHE LIVES

Many wonderful endorsements have been given Tanie, but one of the most interesting and remarkable yet published in connection with the Master Medicine was given by Mrs. Eliza J. Carlson residing on Carlton avenue, Point Place, Ohio, in an interview recently.

"I certainly can recommend Tanie with all my heart," said Mrs. Carlson, "for I have every reason to believe I would not be living today if I had not taken it. I can also testify to both the immediate and long-time results that one gets from Tanie, for it has been three years now since it restored my health and built me up wonderfully and I am still feeling strong and well."

"My health began to fail in the summer of the following year I became so weak and nervous the siren whistle at the bicycle plant, where my husband was superintendent at the time of his death the year before, did not blow for weeks as the sound of it would make me almost frantic. I soon began having awful pains in my stomach and as time went on my condition became worse. I could not eat anything but what would make me deathly sick and I got to having the most severe headaches. The only results I could get from any treatment or medicine was just a little passing relief and my condition got to be alarming not only to myself, but to my family and friends as well. This gradual getting worse kept up until about 7 years ago when I started down hill rapidly. I contracted a cough that aggravated me nearly all the time and had intense pain in my sides and chest. At the request of my family and friends who were so worried about me, I went several times to the clinic for examination and was told that I was suffering from nerve-exhaustion and just a general breakdown of my system. At this time I could not walk two blocks without sitting down to rest and was having such awful dizzy spells that I often felt like I would faint. For weeks at a time I did not know what I was to get a good night's sleep and could see no hope of living much longer. In such agony as I was suffering."

"At the time I began taking Tanie I only weighed about five pounds, having lost thirty pounds and was scarcely more than a frame. Just before moving from St. Louis to my present address four years ago, some of my friends called my attention to Tanie and as a factor, hope, decided to try it. Well, my surprise and joy can be imagined when after finishing my first bottle I began to feel better. Then I continued taking Tanie and I soon got able to eat most anything and my troubles gradually left me. I also picked up in weight until I reached one hundred and five pounds, making a gain of ten pounds which I think is wonderful, especially for a person of my age as I am now sixty two. For the past three years I have been doing all my housework, which I had not been able to do in many years. Tanie is now my favorite and has been ever since it restored my health. I keep a bottle in the house all the time and when I get to feeling badly it soon straightens me out again. I will praise Tanie as long as I live for I just think it is the greatest medicine in the world."

Tanie is sold in Portsmouth by Fisher and Strelch Pharmacy and by leading druggists in all towns.

Mrs. Grade Miles of Huntington has returned home, having spent Christmas with her brother, Tracie Miles, of Gallia street.

SOME LOVER IN "BLUE BANDANNA" AT LYRIC TONIGHT

William Desmond Goes the Limits to Convince the Prettiest Girl in the West That He Really Loved Her

"All the world loves a lover," at least, all the feminine world. When a lover happens to be a regular older, good scout, straight-shooter, & whatever a real man's man is called, even the men will tolerate him.

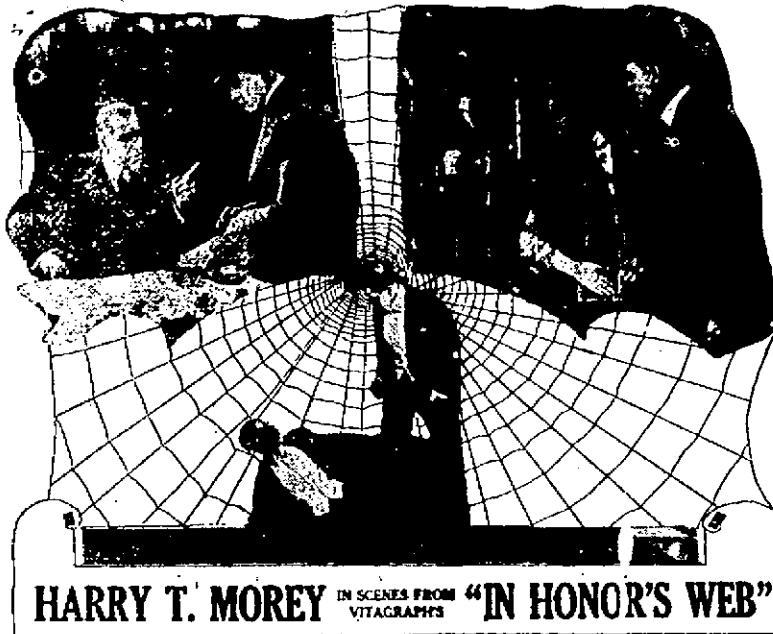

Jerry Jerome in "The Blue Bandanna," William Desmond's new production for Robertson-Cole, was a real guy, even if he did have seven or eight millions lying around loose.

There was nothing up-stage about Jerry. He wras West to galvanize us atrophied hemoglobin—whatever got it into action, and when he caught sight of pretty Ruth Yaney feeling the chickens at the Yaney farm, he dropped right off the stage. "This is my home," said Jerry, and it was. But before he was the gal he had to scrub floors, wash dishes, make up beds and dish out the soup to the cruey farmhands. They called him "Jizzle," but Jerry showed he could hold an upper as well as he could a cup. And all the time the girl he had, not at him but with him, for she saw right away Jerry was a real man.

All this was only the prelude to the big act, however. Before the final play with Ruth, Jerry ran down a bad stage-hand and made him confess he was trying to blackmail the girl's father.

Great stuff! But then, Jerry was a great lover—and a regular feller, too.

HARRY T. MOREY IN SCENES FROM "IN HONOR'S WEB" VITAGRAPH

A man may become so entangled in his own code of honor that his life is at stake. Harry T. Morey, as Frank Powell, has his own ideas about right. He has purged his rules of conduct after those in vogue when manhood was in flower. This young business man has found that they are as applicable today as in the middle of manhood was in flower. He defends a woman's name and in so doing gets so entangled in the web of honor that his very life is at stake.

Vitagraph Presents The Virile Star, Harry Morey in the Thrilling Photoplay "In Honor's Web" Together With Larry Semon In His New Comedy "Dew Drop Inn" At The Exhibit Tonight And Tomorrow

It is refreshing to see a man imbued with the code of honor that flourished in the days when manhood was in flower. A character of this kind stands out clear and vivid against the background of a more or less flexible code of conduct.

Just the type of man to portray such a character and the force of his acting goes over strong in Vitagraph's new feature "In Honor's Web" which will be shown at the Exhibit theatre tomorrow and Tuesday. You will like it. You cannot help liking it for Frank Powell is the ideal man. He is not an idealist far from it. He is a realist in every sense of the word; but his moral code is the ideal of every man woman and child, and that is the secret of the popularity of "In Honor's Web." The feature is intensely dramatic and has a surprise ending. You do not suspect the real murderer of today's Foster until the final scenes. In fact at three you believe Frank Powell the real ideal and then again you feel that it was Irene Curson who performed the deed. "In Honor's Web" is a picture you must see. The second feature on tomorrow's bill will be Larry Semon's latest whirlwind comedy "Dew Drop Inn" and according to all reports it is the funniest thing that has ever been shown here. Another thrilling installment of "The Great Kudium Mystery" will complete one of the best bills in the history of the house.

Edward Peil tells how it feels to fall landed. The trainer with his big form off a cliff in "The Eyes of the World" was right on the job and the brute, "In my motion picture experiences I satisfied for the moment with the red hands," said Edward Peil, who falls off the high cliff in the Clue production of "The Eyes of the World" which will be shown at the Columbia theatre December 29, 30 and 31, but I stand one stand to put over that gave me more concern for a few ticklish minutes than dropping over flat edge of the precipice in the flight of the lions in Harold Bell Wright's new book."

I was in one of the wild animal pictures that used to be so popular and plunge from the cliff that about half the people who see the climax in "The Eyes of the World" are only half convinced that a dummy was used, although it is plainly shown that Butch (Peil) is shot during the fight with Kling (Murray) and drops over the edge. There is no chance whatever for the employment of a stuffed figure. To still all controversy it may be said here that Peil will fall over the cliff, and not only once, but as he says, five other times in rehearsal.

Benefit Dance

Tonight, in Wilhelmette hall, a benefit dance will be given for the Salvation Army. A committee of eight young women is in charge. A large number of tickets have been sold for the dance, which starts at 8:30 o'clock, with Anderson's jazz orchestra furnishing the music.

DOROTHY PHILLIPS IN "THE RIGHT TO HAPPINESS" THE BIG UNIVERSAL JEWEL SPECIAL

Into the Jewish quarter of the old St. Petersburg of nineteen years ago swept a horde of bloodthirsty Cossacks. With sword, rifle and torch they slaughtered the inhabitants and burned their homes, not even sparing the residence of Andrew Hardcastle, an American multimillionaire. They killed the Jewish wife of Hardcastle's only twin daughters and caused the separation of the children. When Hardcastle returned from a business trip next morning, he found his palatial home a mass of charred and smoking ruins. One of his baby treasures was gone.

Such is one of the dramatic elements on which Allen Holubar has created "The Right to Happiness," his latest super-production featuring America's great emotionalist, the radiant Dorothy Phillips. In it is told the world's greatest love story. See it at the Temple.

Conner Hendrickson said this morning that an inquest will be held later to determine the cause of death.

Death Cause Not Found

A post mortem was held Sunday over the body of O. B. Dixon who died while at work in the lime pit at the Solley plant Saturday evening. Coroner J. D. Hendrickson, Dr. H. A. Schirmer and Dr. J. S. Rardin held the post mortem but were unable to find what caused sudden death.

Conner Hendrickson said this morning that an inquest will be held later to determine the cause of death.

The Whirlpool A Stirring Drama of Life in New York's Tenderloin Done With the Greatest Skill at Alice Brady's Command, at the Strand

Tonight

The Whirlpool Alice Brady's latest Select Picture, adapted for the screen by Eve Unsell from Victoria Morton's popular novel of the same name, will be shown here at the Strand theatre tonight as a feature in her Select Star Series, and promises to surpass even the best of its predecessors.

The story deals with the struggles of a mother native of a young girl brought up amidst the temptations of a gambling den, and by her uncle, a prominent figure in New York's Tenderloin, Bella Casotto (Alice Brady), leads men on to play in her uncle's gambling house although her soul revolts at the thought of ruin which she ultimately brings to many of the habones. One of the most frequent visitors, Richard Bretter, falls in love with her, and in spite of her protests goes to every length to provide her with costly gifts. His efforts lead him into court where Justice Reardon, heron of Bretter's youth and prettily fine record, suspends sentence.

Shortly after this one escape from Justice Reardon through Perils, the racket who cunningly suggests this means of attaining funds, steals the great Bosphorus emerald. He is arrested for the murder of the owner, Colonel Warren, which occurs at the time of the theft.

REV. LIBBY MAKES FURTHER STATEMENT IN REGARD TO OLD TOWN FUNERALS

Editor Portsmouth Times,
Dear Sir:

Inasmuch as many who read my open letter to the undertakers of Portsmouth, published December 13, regarding funerals at Old Town church misconstrued my statements, and as such misconception was furthered by the publication of my personal letter to you with additional remarks not authorized: I ask that you publish if requested as above noted.

A family which never avails itself of any of the means of the church's engagement the deceased wish to engage the Minister of the Old Town Ministry, and when an illness is serious, the undertaker unto death seizes out of its members, is asked to inform them that unless there is no desire for Christian counsel, advice or prayer, is surely impelled by the family to consult with the minister they may desire, immediately to reach the home of some church or someone of its members regularly contributes to the church expenses of the Old Town, budget the minister's charge will be five dollars.

The minister is not wise when he exacts such unconscionable hypocrisy and the plea that such a funeral is an opportunity to preach to those who never enter the church on any other occasion. Is not the argument of a strong man who wishes to evangelize his community?

The Undeclared is Always Anxiety. To Call Where Illness or Trouble Is. If He Is Only Made. Aggravated With The Need. For Such Services In Case of Illness or Death There Will be No Charge. Memorandum For Such Work Would of Course Be Refused.

Protestant ministers are mistaken in their conception of the Christian service and they cheapen their cause, if not their Christ, when undertakers and the public are allowed to think they can be called from any task at a day's notice to conduct funerals for those who have had no thought for the Christ, or the church or the ministry of the church; and who will have no such thought after the grave is filled.

When the minister has not known of the illness or when death has been sudden, the undertaker would advise the family to consult with the minister they may desire, immediately to reach the home of some church or someone of its members regularly contributes to the church expenses of the Old Town, budget the minister's charge will be five dollars.

Protestant ministers are mistaken in their conception of the Christian service and they cheapen their cause, if not their Christ, when undertakers and the public are allowed to think they can be called from any task at a day's notice to conduct funerals for those who have had no thought for the Christ, or the church or the ministry of the church; and who will have no such thought after the grave is filled.

When the minister has not known of the illness or when death has been sudden, the undertaker would advise the family to consult with the minister they may desire, immediately to reach the home of some church or someone of its members regularly contributes to the church expenses of the Old Town, budget the minister's charge will be five dollars.

The minister is not wise when he exacts such unconscionable hypocrisy and the plea that such a funeral is an opportunity to preach to those who never enter the church on any other occasion. Is not the argument of a strong man who wishes to evangelize his community?

The Undeclared is Always Anxiety. To Call Where Illness or Trouble Is. If He Is Only Made. Aggravated With The Need. For Such Services In Case of Illness or Death There Will be No Charge. Memorandum For Such Work Would of Course Be Refused.

The Best Oil for Your Ford Engine

Because the Ford engine parts are enclosed with transmission gears and clutch, the lubricating problem is particularly complex.

The engine proper demands heavy oil. The transmission gears extra heavy. The disc clutch oil light enough to prevent "dragging."

Veodol Medium was perfected to meet the special problems of the Ford. Try it and see how effectively it meets your needs.

JUST DOPE

What will undoubtedly be one of the best games of the season will be staged here on New Year's night. January 1, between the Friars, champion baseball team of the state, and the fast Select team of Portsmouth.

The Selects can make an enviable reputation by beating the Friars and are going to try to do it. In booking me they fully recognize the ability of the Friars.

Manager Brockman, of the Friars, sends his lineup to Manager Bremser and from it one may readily see what a tough proposal on the Selects are tackling. In the forward positions such men as Ed Sicking, member of the Philadelphia National League baseball club, Frankie Nester, lightweight champion who recently staged a ten round mill here, and Westie and Shad, two of the best forwards in Cincinnati. The center position will be held by Brewer, all Cincinnati High School center, who is said to be a rival of Hesma in shooting baskets. The guard positions will be held by Vilnes, Donovan and Schellier, ex-high school stars.

It can readily be seen from the above lineup that the aggregation constitutes one of the strongest basketball teams of the country.

The Selects will be greatly strengthened by several local stars. Kent star forward of Sciotoville High and last year's Selects, will likely appear in the Selects' lineup. The Selects are sparing no time in conditioning themselves for the game.

The Catholics of this city are planning to turn out en masse and welcome the Friars. This is the first time they have ever played in this part of the state and the local people plan to show them a good time.

The Selects are completing arrangements for a special game either here or at Clevesville the decision to be left to the Clevesville team for a side bet and sixty per cent of the gate receipts. The Selects feel that they are the better team in the two and are ready to show it. In case the game is played each team will have an official.

PASADENA, CAL., Dec. 29.—Weather conditions here were described as bad by Trainer Donovan, who has charge of conditioning the Harvard football team for its game on New Year's day with the University of Oregon. Donovan said the weather was not warm enough to suit the needs of men who he indicated today were overweight.

On the other hand, Coach Huntington of the Oregon squad has decided after observing the exercises that it will require more pounds than is now the men than only one extra practice a day.

Harvard is regarded as a slight favorite among followers of the game although supporters of the westerners clung to express confidence.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—The minority in the American League, composed of Moses Rappe, Conlon, Moore and Huston, is preparing to take action on the recently granted writ of habeas corpus of the officials of the Cleveland, regarding the alleged stock held by Sam Johnson. It was learned

OVERTURES TO POLAND FOR PEACE

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 29.—The soviet government at Moscow has sent a formal peace offer to the Polish government by wireless. The message indicates that the Bolsheviks are preparing a new offensive against Poland with a purse of $100,000. It will be signed articles to swap punches with Sharkey in New York.

Over east the football followers are letting it to 2 that Harvard will beat the Oregonians on New Year's Day in Pasadena. The Harvard team is said to be in splendid shape for this inter-section gridiron struggle.

What is the effect of correcting near-sightedness or myopia?

The patient's distant vision is improved much or little, depending upon the extent to which he was myopic.

Then correcting short-sightedness ought to cause a person to enjoy life more?

AN EASY POSSIBILITY

A PHILADELPHIA policeman died the other day after a service of forty-one years leaving an estate of a quarter of million dollars. From the circumstance that his pay ran from $100 to $140 per month there is tendency on the part of some newspapers, that carry his story, to treat it flippantly, to leave the inference that he may have come by his fortune in some other way than legitimately.

This is not a decent way to regard it. Policemen in large cities have some distinct advantages and honest ones, too. One of these is the advice and tips as to investments given them by men of large affairs, who come to esteem them highly for their years of unfailing courtesy and faithfulness. Besides there is the power of thrift. If this particular policeman was of a saving disposition, as he evidently was, his most natural inclination would be to invest in real estate. If he were of reasonable judgment here he could not have helped making a fortune. Philadelphia has grown steadily in forty years and her population has about trebled in that time. Beauty therein, for the same period has soared to dizzy heights. It is altogether reasonable that a lot, bought a generation ago for $500 is worth $100,000 now. Our policeman may have bought one, or several of such lots, because being a prudent man and figuring on possibilities he would have noted the trend of values and sought advantage thereof.

The essential basis, however, of his unusual accumulation must have been thrift and saving, and had he done no more than lay by an average of five hundred dollars annually, investing this at six per cent he still would have accumulated a considerable fortune. We can see that by a little figuring. Let us take, for instance, his first five hundred dollars. Did he invest that as stated it would now amount to $4,000 of itself. But we will say he saved 41 times $500, so he laid by altogether for the years of his service. In 41 years that would have doubled twice, so his total savings at only six per cent compound interest would have been $82,000.

There are people who earn three and four times annually what the Philadelphia policeman did, who say they can never get rich. They are sadly mistaken. They can. All they have to do to reach the goal is to save and invest safely and at a reasonable interest. The reason why so comparatively few of those who have the opportunity fail to succeed is they will deny themselves nothing that their income will buy, or that they speculate instead of investing.

HIGH FLIERS AND BOOZE

T HERE goes a saying, describing a man under the influence of booze that he is flying high.

Because Lieutenant Maynard, winner of the transcontinental aerial race, has written a letter to the New York Anti-temperance league saying men, who are addicted to strong drink find aeroplane particularly hazardous and many, many accidents happened during the war to those of this class, he seems to have gotten in trouble with his superiors and is doing some tall explaining.

The public would like to know whether this is because of the principle he was setting forth, or that he was drawing the long how in his allegation of facts. There would seem to be a wide difference between the two. In common apprehension even a lieutenant has a right to express his personal opinion on an issue that one way or the other concerns the nation for good or bad. Yes, even now that the end has come and we want to know and have a right to know the whole facts and incidents of the war, he has a right to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. The honor of the service is a valuable asset and high pride to the country, it is to be most sacredly and securely guarded, but that can not be done by keeping from public knowledge acts and accidents of its own doing that are to its discredit. So if Lieutenant Maynard has expressed his personal views and related only the facts, the public will not relish any military muzzle put upon him.

On the other hand if he speaks untruthfully or summarily repressed and forced qualification put upon him will be to the honor of the service. That can be vindicated only by frank and open establishment that intoxication among the aviators was not the common thing he claims it to have been. Nobody supposes it was; the air service acquitted itself too gallantly and successfully for such a condition to have possibly existed, but there is nothing so sweet as to have one's cherished faith confirmed by physical proof.

It is likely the next development of the Maynard letter episode will be another congressional investigation, but the public doesn't hanker after that. It wants an inquiry that will be conducted squarely and reveal itself frankly.

We will have to admit we were mistaken in our prediction that there would be an inquiry into the strife arising out of distinguished service medals in the navy. There are going to be two,

New-York Day-By-Day
BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Up very early and to the pier to see the Baltic come in and thence to the Franks for breakfast on a skittle of sausages and some rations of wheat and rye. It takes but an hour. I lost firewood. Very good this day with my new stockings from Paris in many colors and embroidered initials.

The wind high I walked through the town and Lord the short skirts! I bought a basket of fruit for my wife, poor wretch, who seems pleased with me of late and I am content. My house is as neat as ever it was and I have been able lately to put by a few pounds.

Everybody is fashion is speaking French and I contracted for a few lessons from M. Guittereau a quaint old scholar and I suspect a vetera' Batchelor from the way he swayed his headwater jar. Kenneth Roberts to call on his way to Italy to write for Sir Horace Lorimer, the pamphleteer.

Still great indignation in the public places over the Artukov poisoners who are selling drugged devotions at high prices and blinding and killing many.

Yet the borgers seem listless about it and nothing is done. To a bookseller's

SHE MARRIED AN AVERAGE MAN

BY ZOE DECKLEY

"Ann—" As that single syllable of Jim's voice came over the telephone with a great throb of thankfulness warmed my heart. Thankfulness to Athena's Hest for the kindly description that now made Jim believe he was responding to my call. "Ann—if you'd phoned me when you did I the whole game would have been up! Yes, I'm not joking. I was going away. But you're—wonderful, Ann. You did what I couldn't do. You gave me. Giving in is very hard for—for some nature."

The hot blood beat in my face and temples. Thoroughly ashamed of myself, I stood before the instrument that seemed weirdly conscious of my guilt, trying to find words. But I couldn't understand Jim. It would have been suicidal. Until that moment I had no realization of what marriage meant to me. I suddenly felt like a child that had lost itself in a fog, had frozen and started and suffered and at last been found. I knew, too, what it was costing Jim, stiffened and obstinate as he is to say even those three words. "You're wonderful, Ann."

The gentle little phrase almost wrung me up. All my self-righteousness fell away from me. My fearless grappling with the world alone seemed not to be there somehow. Instead, I felt an intense longing, half hysterical, to throw myself upon my old Jim and ask him to take care of me. All at once I felt very feminine, and was not ashamed of it. It was hard to believe that a few days ago I had told Athena I was about ready to leave Jim and admit our marriage was a mistake.

For the moment I almost forgot Fanny Freshie and that awful night

UNDERTAKER "KING PIN" IN THE SALE OF DEADLY BOGUS WHISKY SUPPLY

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Three men, a druggist, a liquor dealer, and an undertaker, faced charges before a United States commissioner here this morning in connection with the spreading of wood alcohol as whiskey through five states in the last ten days, death and blindness following its wake.

The men arrested late last night and early today by Daniel L. Porter, supervising revenue agent here, and H. B. Dobbs, a federal agent, are: Adolf Panarelli, a Manhattan wine and liquor dealer; John Romaneli, a Brooklyn undertaker; Samuel K. Saleby, a Brooklyn druggist. Panarelli, according to Dobbs, is the "king pin" in the wood alcohol traffic; Panarelli, who, according to federal agents, made a clean breast of his part in handling the beverage, said when arrested:

"I am glad you got me. I will tell all I know, but for God's sake don't send me to Connecticut. I don't want to be lynched. My name has been published in all the papers, and it would mean certain death."

According to Dobbs, Panarelli in explanation said that he had been approached by a man named Solsteeg, of Hartford, Connecticut, a friend of his, to procure some "Christmas" booze. Panarelli then got into communication with Romaneli, Dobbs said, and finally Saleby, the druggist. When interviewed by newspaper men at police headquarters, Panarelli said he believed that 20 barrels of the "whiskey" had been shipped to Hartford, each barrel containing between 40 and 50 gallons. The price paid was from $1,000 to $1,500 a barrel, he said.

PARIS, Dec. 29.—(Havas)—Rivers throughout France, swollen by continued rains, threaten disaster to many sections. Navigation on the Seine is already difficult and if the inundation continues, traffic will be forced to stop. In eastern France the rivers, continue to rise, especially the Meuse, which is out of its banks.

In Belgium the situation has been

MACHINERY TO PREVENT OR RETARD LABOR CONFLICTS PROPOSED BY CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Tentative that will arrest all danger of inter-recommendations for the establishment of machinery to prevent or retard labor conflicts in private industry were announced today by the President's Industrial Conference with a view to obtaining constructive criticism before a final plan is adopted.

The plan as outlined now contemplates the creation of a National Industrial Tribunal and Regional Boards of Inquiry and Adjustment, which would more to the settlement of disputes before there was any stoppage of production. Decisions would be made in the full force and effect of a trade agreement between the parties to the dispute.

Remarking that some public utilities such as railroads, are essential to the very existence of the people, the conference's tentative statement expressed the opinion that the "interference in such essential public utilities is intolerable." But the conference indicated clearly the general principles which it has based its recommendations.

"Our modern industrial organization, the tentative report said, "is not to become a failure, must be to the individual a larger satisfaction with life. Not only must it be remembered, but the conception of leadership must be substituted for that of membership.... Human fellowship in industry must either be an easy phrase or a living fact."

"Realizing the growth of better relationships between employer and employees, the practical approach to the problem is to devise a method of preventing or retarding conflicts by providing machinery for the adjustment of differences. To be successful such tribunals must be so organized as to operate promptly as well as impartially. The plain fact is that the public has long been interested in the power of great employers. It is becoming necessary about the power of great labor organizations. The community must be assured against any invasion by either."

"The plan which follows does not propose to do away with the right to strike, to discharge, or to maintain a closed or open shop."

The National Industrial Tribunal suggested by the conference would consist of nine members appointed by the President, three each representing the employers, employees and public. The tribunal would, in general, be a board of appeal whose decisions must be unanimous, but provisions made for public majority and minority reports in cases where no agreement was possible.

"Industrial regions, probably in number conforming to the federal reserve system, would be outlined, a regional chairman appointed by each by the President. Vice chairmen would be named by the tribunals in the work in any region required.

Panels of employers and employees for each region would be prepared by the Secretary of Commerce, respectively, conferences with the employees workers of that region. Each panel, approved by the President, would be classified by the industries among employers and by the industries among employees. Lots would be determined the order of names in panel.

When a dispute arose in any region the chairman would request each to submit it to a Regional Board of Adjustment, consisting of the man, one representative chosen each side, and two unchallenged members of each panel. Appointed representatives of both sides in dispute would constitute an agreed to continue the status quo when the trouble arose. Decisions of such regional boards would have unanimous or the question referred by unanimous vote to the National Tribunal.

Refusal by any side to a
